

Trial support technology provides the winning advantage to trial preparation and courtroom presentation. Rickety easels and foam core charts are no longer adequate to convey complex information to today's contemporary jury.

Midwest technology and technicians support litigation from pre-trial scanning of documents during discovery to courtroom presentation of evidence. At Midwest, a single team coordinates all trial support elements for a seamless and effective presentation.

Midwest provides

- Trial Preparation Consultation: Document imaging and scanning; software training; assistance to expert witnesses in selection of presentation methods; work with legal team to determine techniques that work best at trial.
- Graphics & Animation: Through our in-house graphics division, Midwest Visual Strategies, animation, complex models and time lines are economically available for your trial presentation.
- Creative Support in Exhibit Presentation: Recommendations and demonstrations of exhibits; production of Power Point® displays; on-site video and audio editing.
- Courtroom Installations: Schedule with court officials for equipment setup and removal; determine most effective lighting / audio; placement / operation of all equipment for best location and visibility.
- Electronic Presentation: Coordination of equipment and software to facilitate search and retrieval of documents and evidence.
- Technology Support at Trial: Total technical support for systems and equipment; expert use of presentation software for demonstrative evidence.

Midwest – People dedicated to their clients and to the pursuit of professional excellence in the field of court reporting and trial services.
